NASA completed the technology demonstration of its Low-Earth Orbit Flight Test of an Inflatable Decelerator (LOFTID) mission.

The cone-shaped structure will have an inflatable structure that is capable of holding its shape against drag forces.

It will also have a protective flexible thermal protection system that will protect it from the heat generated during re-entry.

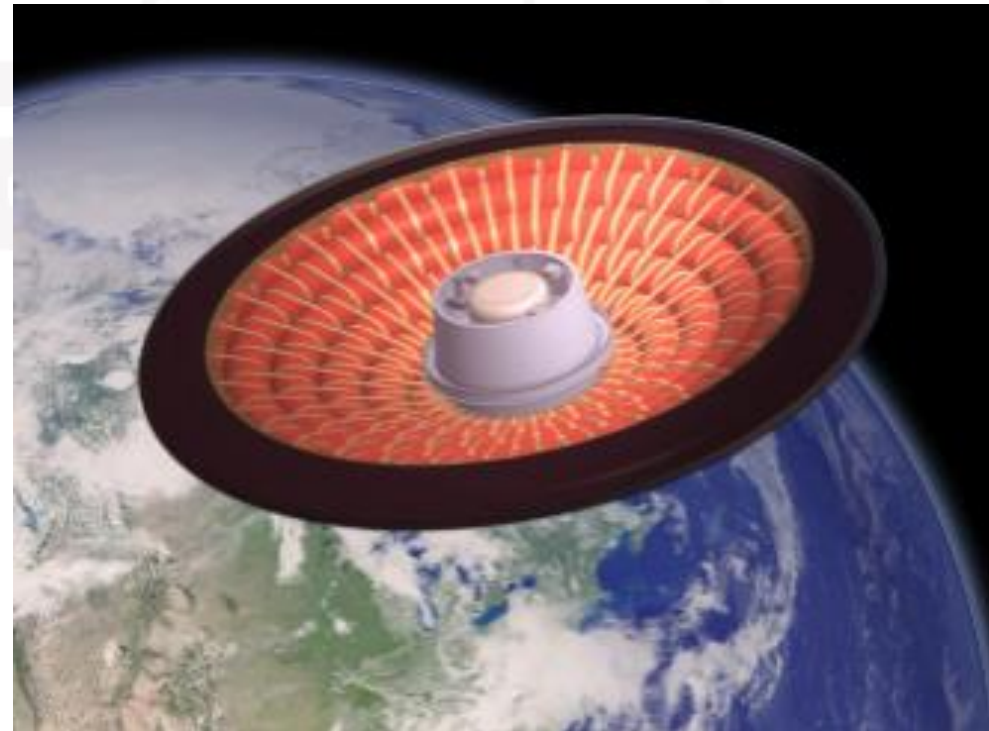

When a spacecraft or anything else enters a planet's atmosphere, drag acts upon the body and slows it down, converting kinetic energy into heat.

Uses:

Bring massive objects back from Earth's orbit, like items from the International Space Station.

Used for bringing back rocket assets after they are launched

Help land humans on Mars

Government of India National Financial Reporting Authority

NFRA

BIG COMPANIES

The National Financial Reporting Authority (NFRA) has published its audit quality inspection guidelines as a step towards further improving the quality of the audit profession.

The inspection guidelines are on the lines of the best practices followed by International Audit Regulators
NFRA was created in 2018 under the Companies Act 2013 and recommends accounting and auditing policies to be adopted by companies. It also monitors the compliance and quality of auditing standards.
