3/N 580

My second story is about love and loss. I found what I loved to do early in life. Woz (Steve Wozniak) and I started Apple when I was 20. In 10 years Apple had grown from just the two of us in a garage into a $2 billion company. And then I got fired. It was devastating.

But something slowly began to dawn on me - I still loved what I did. And so I decided to start over.

The heaviness of being successful was replaced by the lightness of being a beginner again. It freed me to enter one of the most creative periods of my life.

During the next five years, I started a company NeXT, another company named Pixar, and I fell in love with an amazing woman who would become my wife.

Pixar is now the world's most successful animation studio, Apple bought NeXT, I returned to Apple and the technology we developed at NeXT is at the heart of Apple's current renaissance. And Laurene and I have a wonderful family together.

Sometimes life hits you in the head with a brick. Don't lose faith. The only way to do great work is to love what you do. If you haven't found it yet, keep looking. Don't settle.

One morning in a small apartment in Bombay a girl of about sixteen looked up from the newspaper and said excitedly, Pankaj Hari Shankar's playing tomorrow at Shantakhyasada auditorium'.

'Sh-sh,' said her mother pointing to the figure sleeping on the bed. 'You'll wake him up. You know he needs all the sleep and rest he can get.'

But the boy on the bed was not asleep. Pankaj Hari Shankar' he said. Pankaj Hari Shankar, the star tennis? He raised himself up on his elbows for one second and then fell back. But his eyes were shining. 'We mustn't miss the chance,' he said. 'Yes - Yes - always wanted to hear him and see him ...'

'Lie down now, lie down,' the mother sprang to his side. 'He actually rolled himself without help,' she murmured with a catch in her throat and her eyes turned to the child on a corner shelf. The prayer, which she uttered reflexively, came unbidden to her lips.

'I must hear him and see him,' the boy repeated. 'It's a chance of a lifetime.' Then he began to cough and gasp for breath and had to be given oxygen from the cylinder that stood under the bed. But his large eyes were fixed on his sister.

Smuta hit her lip in self-reproach. She had been so excited at seeing the announcement that she had not remembered that her brother was very ill. She had seen how the doctors had shaken their heads gravely and spoken words that neither she nor even her parents could understand. But somewhere deep inside Smuta had known the frightening truth - that Anant was going to die. The word cancer had hung in the air - her brother was dying of cancer even though she
